Ed Abdool

Dear Mr Abdool

Wellington City Council has decided not to proceed with the proposed cull of the city's pigeon population. As stated in a media release on 6 November 2008, Council will continue to urge people not to feed pigeons or leave food scraps about.

This decision was based on expert advise and the costs associated with the on-going pigeon population control.

Council will also be engaging with building owners to pigeon proof their buildings, and with food premises for means of reducing pigeon entry onto their premises.

Kind Regards
