I have great concerns as to the impact on the houses in Imran Terrace and the surrounding streets that are situated directly above the proposed area for further extraction. Aside from the increased noise, I have real concerns about the slippage risk in the long term. Since the Kaikoura quake we have seen multiple slips around the Wellington region where the quake has clearly loosened the ground and this has then washed away with rainfall. The quarry will cause vibration and is bound to have some weakening effect on the hillside and pose an increased risk to the houses above. It seems foolhardy to quarry an area so close to a major housing area and there must surely be better options available for longer term sustainable aggregate. The risk of slip and damage following a major earthquake is already significant and anything which may exacerbate this risk seems completely irresponsible. If this expansion is allowed to proceed then I would wish to know what compensation will be available should damage occur to the properties.

I seek the following decision from Council (please give precise details)

Comments

I believe the expansion plans should be refused or at least curtailed to a very minimal level until an alternative site can be found.
