Children love playing on the Large Cableway! Anyone can play on the cableway due to its length and supportive seat and handhold. The thrill of gliding through the air makes children want to play on the cableway again and again. The feeling of weightlessness and the swooshing through the air, helps develop spatial awareness skills as well as the child's understanding of gravity, space and speed. Social skills are trained as children diligently hand back the seat to the next user in line. The running and pulling involved in this trains the child's cardio as well as upper body muscles. All in all, the large cableway is an asset of play that unites generations and abilities as there is some way for almost everyone to use it.
